Christina is an experienced business litigation attorney who has extensively practiced in state and federal courts and regulatory bodies, and also advises clients on strategic matters. She leverages technology to provide excellent legal services for her clients at highly competitive rates. She aggressively deploys litigation as a highly effective strategic tool in her clients' arsenal in order to achieve their business objectives in the most efficient manner, and she is especially skilled at driving settlements and getting cases dismissed at their onset.

Her experience includes all types of commercial disputes, restrictive covenants and trade secrets litigation, securities litigation, real estate matters (REITs, private equity funds, commercial landlord-tenant, foreclosures, Yellowstone injunctions, zoning disputes, and Article 78 proceedings), derivative litigation, accountants' liability, and all aspects of employment law defense.

In addition to her work as an experienced business and employment defense litigator, Christina draws upon her litigation experience to serve as a trusted advisor to her clients, advising her clients in all aspects of their business, including, but not limited to, employment law, risk mitigation, and safeguarding intellectual property.

Christina has experience working with clients of all sizes, from individuals, to start-ups, mid-size companies, and Fortune 100 corporations.
